

I see no reason for the mosrse code tests to be required to upgrade on each set of amateur license. This is an option for MOST "HAM" radio operators, & if this section was no longer a requirement, & left to be a "personal-option" for those who "WANTS" to use morse code, then those who "WANTS" to use it should have the right to take a test in order to use it. For those who NEVER use morse code, they shouldn't have to be subject to a section, such as morse code, that they will never use anyway. I myself would love to upgrade & experience more radio enjoyment, but alas, I have to stay within the ranks of my current license, which is Technician.
